

Unlike a real healthcare provider, Planned Parenthood is focused not on preserving but on ending lives—over 320,000 lives a year.

Every year, Planned Parenthood performs more than a third of all abortions in America—over 320,000 of them.

Planned Parenthood’s own numbers prove it is a corporation that focuses primarily on abortion and services involving it, rather than on women’s health. One out of every eight of its clients annually undergo abortions; the company does not perform mammograms, and it performs less than two percent of all women’s cancer screenings in the U.S.

Even the Washington Post, a Planned Parenthood ally, declared Planned Parenthood’s attempts to dramatically downplay the role of abortion in the services it provides to be “misleading.”

MYTH: Abortions account for only 3% of Planned Parenthood's services. FACT: Most of its services are connected to abortions.

To get to its claim that only 3% of its services are abortions, Planned Parenthood counts every "discrete clinical interaction" as a separate service, even if that service is connected to a patient getting an abortion.

An abortion, a pregnancy test, and a prescription would all be counted as separate interactions.
